

100+ Vendors Select Catersource's 25th Anniversary Event to Debut New Products and Services

"The catering and events industry is thriving and it's a privilege to be selected as the platform for the most innovative companies to announce their latest products and services," said Ron Bigley, brand director, Catersource. "By gathering the hottest companies in one central location, we are creating the ultimate venue for vendors to educate other professionals on their offerings, and we are providing the best networking opportunities in the catering, culinary, event planning and design industries."

Pure Napkin is proud to announce it has developed new trays for its bamboo-based, environmentally friendly, compressed napkins. The company now offers gift bag packages with engraved trays for any catering event, making table decorations and events more memorable.
